Experience the magical tones of the shakuhachi in the enchanted isles of Hawai'i. This four-day festival will include intensive workshops and lessons in various styles of shakuhachi playing (Chikuho, Chikushinkai, Kinko and Tozan), from traditional to cutting edge contemporary. The festival is for beginners to advanced players, with a special discount and instruments available for absolute beginners. The Masters' Concert (Dec.15th, Orvis Hall, University of Hawai'i) will inaugurate the festivities with a performance of outstanding musicians from both Japan and Hawai'i. The festival will also feature an academic session presenting the latest in shakuhachi research.

Participation Fees include access to all concerts, workshops, private lessons, and academic sessions ($25 discount on all fees with early bird discount until November 1st 2017)

Regular: $350 ($325 early bird), Hawaii Kama'aina : $300 ($275 early bird)

Absolute Beginner: $175 ($150 early bird)

Guest Teachers (in alphabetical order):

Shakuhachi: Christopher Yohmei Blasdel, Steven Casano, Bob Herr, Kōzan Kaminaga, Riley Lee, Kazushi Matama; Koto/shamisen: Darin Miyashiro, Kikuko Sato

With guest artist Kenny Endo performing in the masters' concert
